YI: Referral from ABS - Marriage Law Survey threat received by Ministerial Correspondence [DLM=For-Official-Use-Only]

HI
FYI I'm pleased the AFP responded to this threat - even though it was likely a silly one (as we can never tell when people are and aren't serious)
Thought you should know

Dear all,

For info - the AFP in Adelaide have made a visit to 22 following the referral from yesterday .

The AFP has asked that we keep referring any further treats to them, and I reiterated the ABS' gratitude for their prompt action particularly during the taking of the AMLPS and their ongoing support more generally.

While a visit from the AFP would usually deflate this sort of matter, it is possible that we may get some negative feedback on social media particularly.

Hi 22 ,

Just letting you know the residual risk rating for risk # 6 - Unsolicited material returned to us damages equipment , harms staff or delays processing has now been reduced to Medium.

The change in the risk rating was as a result of a change in consequence (something that seldomly changes) and not likelihood.

The reason likelihood remains unchanged is due to the fact that we have already received a varied amount of unsolicited material (47E ) in the mail and it is likely that we will receive more.

Please let me know if you have any questions of concerns about this.

ABS appreciates and thanks the majority of Australians who have followed the survey instructions and only enclosed the survey form in the envelope. We will not comment specifically on the extraneous materials sent because to do so would bring the very attention that disruptive elements may seek from their actions. Some objects and substances can pose a health and safety risk to scanning operators and may also be a criminal offence.

22, can you consider whether any instances should be referred to the police? 47C

47C Perhaps that should be done with police involvement?

Marriage Law Survey Overview

Issue

The Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) is currently processing survey forms in preparation for publishing survey results and the quality report on 15 November 2017.

Headline Statement

The postal survey delivers on the Government's commitment to let Australians have a say on whether or not the law should be changed to allow same-sex couples to marry.

Key Points

- Processing of survey forms is well underway and as advised by the ABS, around ~~6774.5~~ 6774.5 per cent of eligible Australians had returned their survey form by ~~1320~~ 1320 October 2017.
- Eligible Australians should lodge their forms or complete their forms online or by phone (if post is not possible) as soon as possible and preferably by 27 October to ensure their view is counted.
- The last date by which ABS must have received the form is 7 November 2017. Any Australian leaving it to the last minute to post their form may be putting their response at risk – don't delay, return it today.
- The ABS has in place robust risk management and quality assurance measures to ensure the integrity of the survey response data.

Policy Commitments

- The Government committed to deliver on its pre-election promise to give the Australian people a say on whether or not the law should be changed to allow same-sex couples to marry.

Background

As at ~~1320~~ October 2017, the ABS estimates that it has received ~~10.811.9~~ million survey responses. This represents ~~6774.5~~ per cent of all eligible Australians entitled to participate in the survey.

The latest ABS communication campaign is focused on reminding eligible Australians to participate in the survey and to lodge their survey forms on time.

The ABS put in place procedures to support eligible Australians to participate in the survey – including the ability to request new forms to be posted before 20 October 2017, respond online or by phone, or pickup forms from regional, capital city and remote locations between 25 September 2017 and 20 October 2017.

By returning surveys by 27 October Australian are ensuring there is sufficient time for their mail to travel to ABS and be processed.

The ABS has in place a comprehensive risk management plan, privacy policy, fraud management strategies and quality assurance processes to ensure the highest standards of integrity in the processing of survey forms and interpretation of survey response.

There has been media reporting of a razor blade found in a returned survey envelope. ABS thanks the vast majority of Australians who have followed the survey instructions and only enclosed the survey form in the envelope. ABS is not commenting specifically on the extraneous materials sent. Some objects and substances can pose a health and safety risk to scanning operators and may also be a criminal offence. Special procedures have been put in place to minimise any risk to employees of the ABS and our contractors. The procedures have helped ensure the rare cases of extraneous materials included in envelopes have not caused any harm to any of our staff.

today. The Security guard informed him that we could not provide him with a new form until 26 September and that he could return next week. A slight verbal altercation ensued as the man was not satisfied with this response. However, the Security guard managed the situation well and encouraged him to leave the premises quietly.
